6 good reasons to team up with ClickLearn

Software Convergence is the new norm

IT projects consist of a multitude of different platforms serving the business processes of the modern customer: Microsoft Dynamics, Power Apps, Power BI, Office 365, Forms, Flow. These all need to be part of your digital adoption strategy and your user training.

Customer success is a key metric

Microsoft acknowledges that customer success is a key factor to meeting their growth goals. Therefore, all Microsoft Partners will now be measured on their customer success.

Digital Adoption Market forecast

The market for digital adoption software and services is expected to grow a staggering 15% annually until 2030.

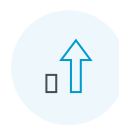

Microsoft's growth strategy intensifies competition

Differentiation is a must! To survive, high customer loyalty is no longer a goal – it's a prerequisite.

Subscription models force partners to think globally

Software is delivered as a subscription. This model requires Microsoft partners to execute at a global scale and be able to onboard customers 24/7 across time zones to maintain profitability.

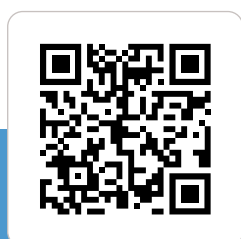

Cloud-based app store Market place

Microsoft has moved to a cloud-based app store business model, which enforces vigorous certification and documentation requirements by the partners who wish to publish on these digital storefronts.

Co-selling with ClickLearn

We are actively selling with our Partners. To support you, we have designed a unique partner portal that works as a true affiliate network.

This allows you to share relevant content to your target audience with no effort. You can utilize your existing social media networks, email and Ad channels. Every lead is automatically attributed to you..

"It's brilliant! It's probably the easiest marketing tool I've come across. It's so easy to get stuff out to potential leads that it's become part of our marketing routine."
 - Jonathan Small, Professional Services, QGate Software Limited.

Affiliate links

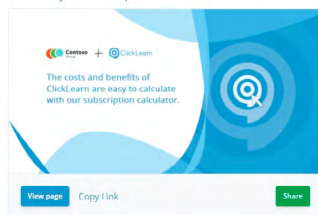

Share these hand-picked website links with the contacts in your network

Do you need to share a link to a page on the ClickLearn website? It couldn't be easier!

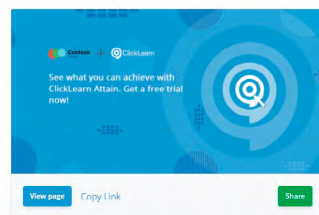

Each link is affiliated to you and returns a page branded with your own corporate identity. What's more, the page includes a unique co-branded open-graph image identifying ClickLearn with your brand when you share the link on social media.

If a contact in your network engages with ClickLearn using this link, they are automatically registered as a lead claim against your partner account.
